Resume

Profile

I'm Louis Bullock, an artist and graphic designer hailing from Adelaide, South Australia. I have achieved an Advanced Diploma in Graphic Design, as well as a Bachelor of Design (Communication Design). Often I work on small projects, in some cases collaborating, producing music, and drawing.

The work I create communicates something further, deeper. It is the subtleties and rationale that elevate my works — I'm not one for superficial design.

Clients are close in my process, and are dealt with in a good-natured, respectful manner.

My approach is meticulous and considered, instilling meaning at all points of the process.

Simplicity and complexity. Harmonious and discordant relationships of these, and other contrasts, set the foundation for my works, and inform my approach.

Whenever there's the opportunity to push towards goals and results for something greater than myself, I'm completely on board. I bring a good sense of humour, positivity, and a level-headed demeanour to all workplaces.

My common-sense approach, strong ethical principles, and self-improving manner make me a valuable team member.

In and outside of my studies, I've proven to be able to produce high quality, industry standard work, and have a great attention to detail and consideration in my designs. I have a strong sense of design, and am skilled in both analogue and digital mediums.

I have experience working with local and international clients. From this, I've developed solid communication skills, a fluid workflow, as well as great ability when following briefs.
